

Specific situations that prevent individuals from using The Benefit Bank

There are situations that require a client to make a certain entry on his/her tax return, fill out a particular form, or income limits that The Benefit Bank has set that may prevent him/her from using The Benefit Bank. Below is a list of those situations:

- The household adjusted gross income (AGI) is higher than $60,000
- The person is a business owner or a statutory employee that must file Schedule C
- The person and his/her spouse are dual-status or non-resident aliens
- The client has to make any of the following payments:
 - Penalty for underpayment of estimated tax
 - Alternative minimum tax
 - Household employment taxes
- The client has codes R, P, or T in box 12 of his/her W-2

Reporting forms that TBB can help individuals with

Reporting forms are the forms that individuals receive from employers, banks, schools, and other institutions that are used to show the amount of income a person received from that source AND the amount of money the person paid to that institution that can be used to claim a deduction or credit. Below is a list of those reporting forms that our program asks about:

- W-2: Wage & Tax Statement
- 1099-MISC: Miscellaneous Income (i.e. Nonemployee or Other Income)
- 1099-R: Pensions, Annuities, IRAs, & Insurance Contracts
- SSA-1099: Social Security Benefit Statement
- RRB-1099/RRB-1099-R: Railroad Retirement Board Statements
- CSA 1099R/CSF 1099R: Statement for U.S. Civil Service Retirement Benefits
- 5498: IRA Contribution Information
- 1099-INT/1099-OID: Interest Income
- 1099-DIV: Dividends
- 1098-E: Student Loan Interest Statement
- 1098-T: Tuition Statement
- 1099-G: Government Payments (Unemployment or State/Local Tax Refunds)
- W-2G: Certain Gambling Winnings
- 1099-C: Cancellation of Debt
- 1098: Mortgage Interest Statement
- 1098-SA: Distributions from an HSA

NOTE: There are also income types and expenses that our program asks about that could be reported on a statement with no particular label. Additionally, the individuals may not receive a document at all about these items. In such situations, continue to use the module to see if that information is asked about.

Individuals who have reporting forms that are not on this list will not be able to report that type of income and claim a deduction or credit related to that form.
